

Expected ROI of enterprise ESS system project in Panama 2025

Will Panama's economic growth rebound in 2025-2026?

Panama's economic growth is expected to rebound gradually in 2025-2026, recovering from an estimated +2.5% in 2024 to an average of +3.5%. This growth will be supported by base effects following the closure of Cobre Panama, the country's second-largest export source after the Canal, and investment in the construction sector.

Will the external ESS market recover in 2025?

IDC expects that the recovery of the external ESS market will be pushed into 2025 as the strong growth in investments into computing infrastructure will start slowing down.

What economic challenges will Panama face in 2025?

According to Bethancourt, one of the economic challenges in Panama in 2025 is navigating high interest rates in the United States, which could increase the cost of external financing and potentially reduce foreign direct investment. Corbett highlighted that Panama's economic growth in 2025 would depend on internal and external factors.

How will CSS reforms impact economic challenges in Panama in 2025?

Regarding the impact of CSS reforms on economic challenges in Panama in 2025, Aramburuz-Porras stressed the importance of resolving the crisis in the Disability, Old Age, and Survivors (IVM) program, as it significantly affects the country's risk profile and public finances.

Which sectors will drive economic growth in Panama in 2025?

Bethancourt commented that Panama continues to rely on traditional sectors to drive economic growth in 2025: ports, airports, tourism, and the Panama Canal. However, he emphasized the need to prioritize the industrial and agricultural sectors.

What is the budget for 2025 in Panama?

For 2025, the government of President José Raúl Mulino will operate with a General State Budget of $26.084 billion, representing a 15% reduction ($4.605 billion less) compared to 2024. This reflects the economic challenges in Panama in 2025, as the government balances fiscal discipline with the need to stimulate growth.
